PIERRES RESTAURANT

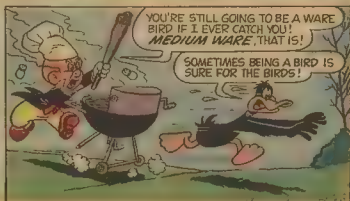

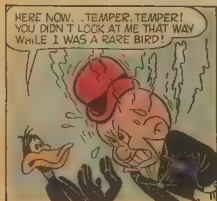

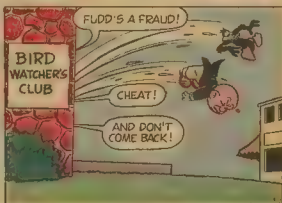

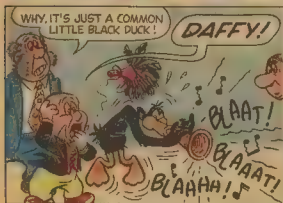

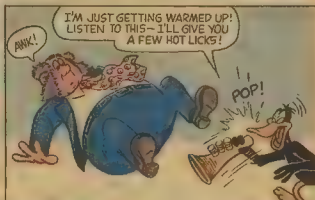

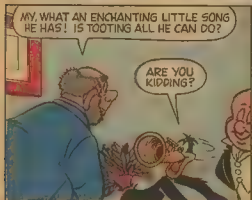

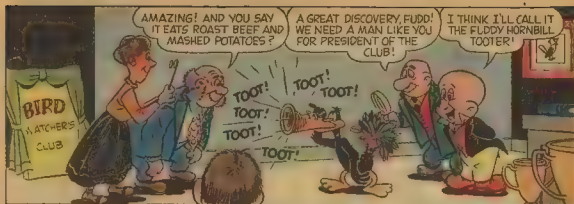

FINE

HOT Tamale Dog

"Eet ees not right for your mama to send me to the store to shop," grumbled Pancho Vanilla as he strolled down the dusty street with his son, Little Pancho.

"Shhh, Papacito," Little Pancho cautioned. "Mamacito may hear you."

Pancho turned around nervously, but his firmly-determined wife was beyond hearing.

"To buy tamales and frijoles is not the work of a man!" he complained weakly.

Soon they were at the store, and Pancho approached the counter timidly.

"What ees eet you want, Pancho?" asked the storekeeper.

"I want good meat to keep up my failing strength," Pancho Vanilla moaned, "but I weel take some tamales and frijoles!"

When Pancho and Little Pancho left the store, they heard loud cries coming from the far end of the street and, a moment later, the clatter of running feet grew louder and louder as a frightened crowd of villagers swept past them.

"Run, everyone!" shouted an excited man. "Run for your lives!"

"Maybe eet ees a wild bool!" cried Little Pancho joyfully. "Then you can fight heem and save the people of Chilivania from thees beast, Papacito!"

"But what if I harm thees valuable animal?" Pancho exclaimed uneasily. "The person who owns eet would be verree angry at me."

"Eet would be much better for you to harm eet than for eet to harm us," said Little Pancho firmly.

By that time, the crowd of clamoring people swept past Pancho and Little Pancho like a noisy, thundering ocean surf.

"Flee before eet ees too late!" someone yelled frantically.

"My Papacito does not flee from even the most wild bool!" declared Little Pancho proudly.

Just then the mayor trotted past them and wheezed wildly. "Thees mad bool . . ." But before he could finish, he stumbled and fell onto the dusty street.

"Come, Little Pancho," exclaimed Pancho hastily, "we must take thees food home to Mamacito at once!"

"Gollies, Papacito," Little Pancho hissed in amazement, "eet ees too late. Here comes the mad bool now!"

And sure enough, leaping down the street right toward them was a snapping, snarling bull . . . bulldog, that is.

"Save the mayor, Papacito!" implored Little Pancho earnestly.

Unfortunately, Papacito could think of nothing but the gaping mouth and long teeth that were coming swiftly at him. Desperately, he held out the juicy, hot, savory tamales as a forlorn defense, and the bulldog grabbed them ravenously.

After a few minutes of stunned silence, the portly mayor heaved himself to his feet, looking with amazement as the big dog, which had gulped down the tamales, was licking Pancho's hand adoringly.

"A miracle," the mayor panted.

"The dog was hungry," explained Pancho as he patted the dog very carefully.

"My Papacito is the master of animals," Little Pancho boasted.

"That is all very well," sighed Pancho, as he and Little Pancho plodded slowly home, "but what will Mamacito say when I come home with no tamales?"

(A)

Give "safety thru skill." Train me to handle, shoot a gun properly. Daisy is the best for this. Since 1888 Daisy has used the same safer spring-type action—the safer short range—the safer low "factory limited" power. It is NOT a lethal pneumatic gas pellet or compressed air gun. I have checked the Daisy Training Rifle I want for my birthday.

HAVE FUN SAFELY

DON'T GET HURT.

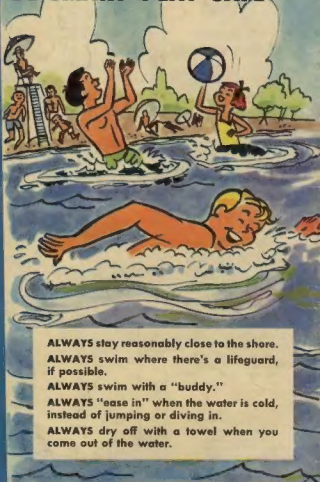

NEVER dive until you've checked with a long pole for depth, hidden rocks or logs.
NEVER swim when tired, overheated or chilled.

NEVER swim where there's a fast current or undertow.

NEVER duck or rough-house anyone in the water.

NEVER swim after eating a big meal.

BE SMART-PLAY SAFE

ALWAYS stay reasonably close to the shore.
ALWAYS swim where there's a lifeguard, if possible.

ALWAYS swim with a "buddy."

ALWAYS "ease in" when the water is cold, instead of jumping or diving in.

ALWAYS dry off with a towel when you come out of the water.

HERE'S ANOTHER SMART IDEA...

Juicy Fruit Gum has lots of delicious flavor—and it won't spoil your appetite.

Ask your Mom to bring some home.
